

“What was that Sound?”

---

Biography: Mr. Geoff Hurley, Hurley Environment Ltd.

Geoffrey V. Hurley, M.Sc., is a marine biologist with a unique combination of over 30 years' experience with the offshore energy and commercial fishing industries, as a research biologist with the the federal government (DFO), and as an independent consultant to industry and government through his firm, Hurley Environment Ltd. He has authored or co-authored over 100 technical reports/ publications.

His relevant experience in the offshore energy sector includes:

- Coordinating and/or carrying out environmental impact, risk assessments and reviews
- Designing and/or coordinating offshore environmental effects monitoring programs
- Providing advice on environmental matters during the early planning and design stages of offshore energy developments
- Preparing environmental management system documentation such as environmental protection plans, waste management plans, etc.
- Leading consultation programs with key offshore stakeholders such as fisheries interests, First Nations and non-governmental organizations
- Carrying out environmental inspections/audits