

“Heading for Deeper Water”

---

Biography: Dr. Andrew MacRae, Saint Mary’s University

For the last 10 years, Dr. Andrew MacRae has worked as a researcher and professor in the Department of Geology at Saint Mary's University, Halifax, NS. Prior to his appointment at Saint Mary's he worked for 5 years at the Geological Survey of Canada (Atlantic). His research is primarily focused on the biostratigraphy and sequence stratigraphy in the offshore of Nova Scotia, and the paleontology of the onshore Carboniferous of Nova Scotia and the Cretaceous of Arctic Canada.